Dear Mr. DeNure,

I'm 80, unwell, and can't take the time to disabuse anyone of all the crap promulgated in the various ripoffs of imagined conspiracy theories. My work is entirely factual and in my books I undertake to give the reader only the official fact with its meaning clear and usually other than officially represented.

Moreover, in my published books I provide what answers are possible to some of the questions you ask.

With regard to Garrison, originally I believed his explanations of all the insanities he presented as true but there came a time when it was not possible to credit his explanations. I regret it took me too long to recognize what I should have recognized earlier, that in fact he was a fraud.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
